County auxiliaries receive vests

Nassau County Legislator Jeff Toback (D-Oceanside) recently presented Bullet Resistant Vests to the members of the Nassau County Auxiliary Police Five Towns Unit at the Fourth Precinct.

The importance of this protection was tragically emphasized when, only two days later, New York City Auxiliary Police Officers Eugene Marshall of the Five Towns area and Nicholas Todd Pekearo were killed in the line of duty. Pictured from left are Auxiliary police officers Jonathan Calderon, David Roffe, Ivan Goodstein, Auxiliary Lt. Spyros Vasilakas, Inspector Richard McCarrick, Commanding Officer of the Fourth Precinct, Legislator Toback, Nassau County Police Commissioner James H. Lawrence, Auxiliary captain Leo Goodman, Commanding Officer of Auxiliary Unit 109, Auxiliary Sgt. Danny Gluck, auxiliary officer Jonathan Isler and David Spier.

During the meeting, Legislator Toback, Commissioner Lawrence, and Inspector McCarrick expressed their appreciation the members of the Five Towns Auxiliary Police for the valuable support they provide to the Nassau County Police Department.

The Five Towns Auxiliary Police (Unit 109) patrol marked vehicles helping to make the 5T community a safer place to live by being "eyes and ears" for the Police Department. They provide crowd control and security at parades and special events. They also serve during disasters and other emergencies.
